Don't Let Identity Theft Spoil Your Vacation

Thieves don't take vacations from crime, so as you prepare for your summer getaway, consider stopping your mail and newspaper delivery. Don't post your itinerary on social media. While traveling, carry only the credit cards you'll need, and leave your checkbook and Social Security number at home. Finally, safeguard tickets, itineraries and other travel documents that list personal information.

The Four USES of Cash

We know it's important to have cash available for our everyday spending needs as well as for the inevitable "rainy day." However, many of us have never taken the time to understand how much we really need.

And while it may seem like a good problem to have, having too much of your savings sitting in cash can be an issue, especially when you are investing for long-term goals such as retirement. Ultimately, your cash strategy can be a key factor in your long-term financial success.

To determine the role of cash in your financial life and how much you should have in each of these categories, we use the acronym USES.

Unexpected expenses and emergencies – Cash used for situations such as a job loss, a home repair or an unplanned medical expense

Specific short-term savings goal – Cash dedicated for a goal that will occur within the next year or so, such as a wedding or vacation

Everyday spending – Cash used to provide for your lifestyle, including day–to–day spending needs such as groceries, utilities, entertainment and your mortgage/debt payments

Source of investment - Cash used as an asset class and as a source for investment opportunities

How much cash you should have available in each of these categories depends upon several factors, including whether you are retired. Also, the priority of each of these pieces may change depending on your goals and objectives. For example, younger individuals who have a regular paycheck may find that building a fund for the unexpected may be the biggest priority. For retirees, the goal may be to first ensure you have enough for your everyday spending.

By ensuring you have each of these areas covered, you can better focus on your longer-term goals, including preparing for retirement and paying for education. Schedule some time now with your financial advisor to review your USES of cash.

Withholding on Distributions or Withdrawals – Federal law requires Edward Jones to withhold income tax on distribution(s) from your retirement accounts and other plans unless you elect not to have withholding apply. You may elect a percentage to be withheld from your distribution or not to have the withholding apply by signing and dating the appropriate form and returning it to the address specified on the form. Your election will remain in effect until you change or revoke it by returning another signed and dated form. If you do not return the form by the date your distributions are scheduled to begin, Federal income tax will be withheld. If you do not have enough income tax withheld from your distributions, you may need to pay estimated tax. You may incur penalties if the amounts withheld and your estimated tax payments are not equal to the tax you owe. State withholding, if applicable, is subject to the state's withholding requirements. Fees and Charges – The "Fees and charges" amount shown in your Summary of Your Investment Activity includes all activity fees, except dividend reinvestment fees. Fair Market Value for Individual Retirement Accounts – Your fair market value as of December 31st will be reported to the IRS as required by law.

Rights to Your Money Market Fund, Bank Deposit and Free Credit Balances – Your free credit balances are payable on demand. You may require us to liquidate your bank deposit or money market fund balance. We will then disburse the proceeds to you or place them in your securities account. Your instructions must be made during normal business hours and are subject to terms and conditions of the Account Agreement.
