Thanks for the two new owls!! Wherever do you find them! We weren't home when the mailman came by yesterday but he came back later in the afternoon and gave them to me. He's so nice! Have any rain or sleet so far? I just came back from a nice walk. It's still about 70 here. I think the weatherman just likes to scare us. We did have 1/2 inch of rain during the night which we needed. Daddy isn't as alert today as he has been. I'm a little concerned.

I need somebody to yell at. May I yell at you? I think the whole world is designed to send old guys into an early retirement or retirement home. If it isn't one thing it's another!. We just get one thing fixed and another goes kaput!. I bought an inline contract with A.T @ T. this morning which along with the DSL shoots our telephone bill up another fifteen dollars or so. And believe it or not, I talked to a gal in Kansas on this thing. the thing is they say that the static problem is an inside problem and without the contract it could cost hundreds of dollars to have some guy come and fix it. The contract won't go into effect till Feb. 17!!!!!!!
I'm about ready to toss the whole caboodle out, DSL and Phones! The trouble is if I get real upset Daddy gets upset too and he doesn't know whats going on so I try not to do that. Be-the-way, Dr Condera put me on some blood pressure medicine yesterday. Light dose, I think. I never thought it would come to that. Daddy and I went for a walk around the whole block just now and he made it just fine which surprised me no end. Usually he just walks to the end of the block and back. I think he's just as bored with being inside as I am. How's the sleet coming? The only ice I found this morning was on the north side of the dome on the bird feeder. O.k. that's about it. See ya'.

Hi: Carl picked us up this morning and to us to a very interesting little museum in Wharton called the Technology Museum. He heard about it on KUHT, Dr. Leinhart's program. It was raining pretty hard when we left but it cleared off by the time we got there and turned out to be a gorgeous day. It's run by a retired couple who do it really as a kind of hobby. It's on Fulton st. across the road from the river. Daddy really enjoyed it and of course we saw some things that we recognized from our youthful days. Then we had lunch at the Pat-A-Cake restaurant about a block north of there that the lady recommended. It's in an old store, I'm sure but they've redone it very nicely and the food was delicious. Sandwiches, quiche, soup, etc I really appreciated the change because Daddy had some sort of relapse this past week and is back to where he was about a year and a half ago. Doesn't recognize me as his wife, sometimes isn't sure this is his house and a couple days ago always wanted to go to his other house which I don't know where that is. He doesn't say much anymore and I can tell he's trying to figure things out. Sometimes it gets a little hairy and it seems impossible for him to get things straight. Sometimes tho' he can seem almost normal. We went for a bike ride this afternoon and he was fine. Hope you had a good trip today and didn't have to ride in the rain too much.

Daddy is doing quite good right now. Doesn't always recognize why I'm around in the morning but he goes for bike rides yet and we go for a walk around the block during nice weather. I really would like to go to a few things but he wouldn't enjoy it and I hesitate getting a sitter for him. I don't think he'd appreciate that.

Here's my story of the day. Dad lost his hearing aids a number of weeks ago. I searched high and low and in places I knew they wouldn't be. So I made an appointment with the hearing people yesterday for today to get a new set ($3000!). This morning I went in Dad's closet to get a pants for him to wear to the app't. I stuck my hand in a pocket and there were his hearing aids. Don't tell me miracles don't happen. I thought I had gone through every one of his pants and suit pockets but I must have missed this one simply because he hasn't worn it for some time since he gained weight. Now does anyone know how to get rid of plugged ears. Mine are driving me crazy!!! I've tried sudafed but it insn't working.

We usually take the standard deduction. I know you can usually deduct sales tax especially if you've purchased a large item which we have not. I took a bookkeeping course from an old geezer here one time and he said to save your receipts and total up the tax at tax time. I wonder how many people do that? Not many I bet. Carl and Marta were here for lunch this noon. We had a really good time. Ryan is on a business trip to Denver and learning to ski. One of the perks.

Hi: Thanks, I needed that. Don't hear from many people anymore. Candy hasn't written in weeks. Keep asking for a picture of Kevan now that he has cut his hair. Amy, of course, doesn't write anymore. I think we've lot contact with those kids. Anyway, I put in 6 tomato plants Friday. One big beef, one big boy, an early girl, first lady, weet one million and a heritage tomato called Arkansas Traveler. Went to cowboy trucking and got a couple trash cans of dirt and spread that around so the garden looks really nice now. Have a couple of roses blooming. The couch is being recovered and we're having the northwest corner of the house lowered again, so we're getting things done. It's time again to put some money in the insurance policy. I'm going to call Greg this morning. Wish we'd never taken the thing out but I guess it will be o.k. We had a christian scientist yesterday at church. He was rather interesting but sometimes a bit technical. They're having a week of study on Christianity and Science and how they can connect or agree. Have you ever heard of Richard Smalley? He won the Nobel Prize for nanotechnology I think. He was at Rice. We had his secretary as a teacher for 6 wk.s He too was converted to christianity. Dad is kind of mixed up these days so it's good to talk to someone who makes sense. Carole came over Sat. but it's like pulling teeth to get a conversation going with her. (Don;t you dare tellher I said that). Carl and Drina went out to west Texas this weekend to look over a possible job for a gal who wants to build a store to outfit people who want to float down the Devil's River. It's one of the Nature Conservancy areas and I guess is attracting lots of people. See yiy kater,

Hi: Where is Tidehaven. Found Weedhaven but not Tidehaven and what were you doing there? We dug up the strip of grass along the east fence because it is full of weeds and new little ruella plants that multiple like rabbits. Got some new sod and put it down yesterday. Today cleaned out the most of the dirt from the sod we dug up and have a nice new supply in the back garden. Lots of worms in it. Have some more to do. The tomatoes are growing, and the lettuce is up. So are some new cosmos and zinnias so I guess spring is here. Sorry you're not feeling well. I think both of us have allergies of some sort. Lots of coughing, itchy eyes, (me) and runny noses and sneezing in the morning. Clariton doesn't seem to help. That's about all from here. Don't forget, Candy's birthday is the 12th.

Went to Corpus this Sat - there was a real pretty patch of vibrant pink phlox just south of Refugio - didn't see any other flowers but those - didn't notice them on the way down , but saw them on the way back.

Hi: Sorry, I'm bored and lonesome so I'll just bother you. By-the-way, I see you Rep. Ron Paul is going to run for president. Would you vote for him if he did? He seems like a straightforward fellow. Also Sen. Chuck Hagel is thinking about running. He opposes the Iraq war. I'm all for that. And I read an article about Sen. Pete Domenici from N.M. who sounds like he has both feet on the ground. I may vote Rep. yet if one of them gets the nomination. My tomatoes are growing like gagbusters. Some had blooms on already but right now they're covered with the yellow pollen from the pine trees. We're supposed to get rain tonite or tomorrow so maybe it will wash everything off. But this pollen is really making my eyes itch something awful. I've taken a Claritin which helps for awhile but you're supposed to take it only every 24 hours. I hate this computer!! I started an e-mail to you and it suddenly disappeared. Now it's come back so I don't know what you'll get. This DSL isn't any faster than aol either. I wish you were here to fix my printer. I can't seem to get Carol or Carl over here. I'm almost tempted to throw everything out. We went to the wedding of Michelle Suhendra last night and it was quite an affair. I'll tell you about it sometime. The neatest thing was they (Michelle and Ben) sang a duet-Let It Be me-I think you know it. They both have very good voices. The wedding was at The Parador, a former church I sure..Looked like it might be Greek Orthodox or even a mosque which I don't think you would find years ago here. It was octagonal in design. Now it's just used for weddings and such. We're going to have the lawns aerated some time next week and then I'm going to put down some organic fertilizer I bought. Then on the 29th we're having the back end of the house lowered a bit. Should take only about a day unless they run into something unexpected. Wish you could come over and get my printer started. Don't know what's wrong with it. Can't get Carol or Carl over here to look at it.. i guess they're both busy. Well, that's about it from Poddunk Holler. Don't forget to send Candy an e-mail. It's her birthday tomorrow. She'll be 54, if my calculations are right. My, my!!!!

Thanks, I needed that. I wasn't worried about the phone tax, just wondered if you knew about it. Carl didn't. I guess I just want someone to blow off steam to and you're it. Sorry.

Went to a marvelous organ concert at church last night. The organist was Diane Bish. I guess she's world reknown. Tommy got her for the art series that the church is doing. She was at the Coral Gables Presbyterian church in Florida for 20 yearrs. They put the organ on the stage and had the poer point on so we could see her hand and foot work. She playyed a glissando on the foot pedals. I.m surprised she didn;t slide off the bench. As a matter of fact, she said she hoped they hadn;t polished the bench too much. Very nice person. About in her fifties, I'd say. Did 2 numbers with the choir. one which she wrote. If you ever get a chance to her her don;t miss it. p.s these days if you try to tell Daddy to "put a sock in it" he just gets more agitated. I find that just trying to calm him down works a bit better altho that ain't easy at times.

Anita Brunsting <akbrunsting@suddenlink.net> wrote:

Well, I'd write more this weekend, but I already called you and gave you the exciting stuff. The thing is mom that at your age you need to let people do more for you, pay them and don't worry about it - spend some of that money that you've worked so hard for - you and Daddy do not have to worry about finances. Why are you worrying so much about the phone tax, if Ricky is doing your taxes, he should just put it in there and forget about it. Wish I could tell you something to do about Daddy, but I guess he's always going to be a big mouth whether he has his memory or not.

I'll play guru on the mountain and give you some sage advice - you need to let go - you know that little prayer that goes "accept the things I cannot change"? Ok, realize that I'm speaking a little tongue in cheek, but I realized last summer that there's just some things I can't worry about anymore - there's not much I can do about them, like the school district and the powers that be at my workplace - it really did help to just quit worrying about - tho' I'm having a harder time not worrying about the school district.

As far as Amy - your kids are grown, we're adults and we've made our beds and we have to stew in them (to mix metaphors). Right now I'd just like to give Amy a big pop on the butt. But I know it's hard not to worry about Ann and Jack, but legally, unless we can prove abuse, there's nothing we can do.

Have you ever tried telling Daddy to just "put a sock in it"? I found that sometimes when you give back what he dishes out, he shuts up.

That's Anita's Dear Abby column for Sunday nite. Check back w/ me in a day or so for more sage advice (for what it's worth) :-)

I thought maybe when I got to be 80 we could just kind of coast along and enjoy life such as it is, but now it's exactly the opposite with Amy and her troubles and now Daddy is all upset because we've had to move rooms at Sunday school because of the new building project. Our room isn't exactly sound proof and he let it be known last Sunday in class plus we have a very boring teacher. Nice guy but BORING!! He's even called Bob Johnson on it. I'm getting too old for stuff like this and right now couldn't care if I never go to church again. I guess it will all blow over some day. Keep writing, now one else does.

Just thought I'd give you a heads up on that one - I thought she had come around to the fact that she probably won't be able to get the whole thing - she seemed to finally wise up about some things after her retirement from HP (like all the money she wasted on all those horses) and I thought she had come around about the farm, but she just mentioned it again at Christmas. I've got to have anothr talk with Carl sometime. I'm going to ask each of you what you would like in particular and put it in writing so there will be no argument. The rest of the things I guess you'll just have to divvy up. Not that there is anything of particular value, except maybe the bookcase which cost Daddy $20 bucks to begin with. If more than one wants it I guess you'll just have to draw straws or maybe bid on it an the highest bidder gets it. I have'nt asked Candy what she would like. I know she likes the doilies and I have sent her some already. Carol will get her bedroom set that is in her room for sure. I don't know what else she is interested in. She got a lot of Grandma Brunsting's knickknacks that I really think were supposed to be divided. But it all comes down to just stuff anyway! Your Madam Alexander doll is still here too which brings to mind my doll buggy. I don't know who would want that but it's a nice one. I also still have my blackboard I got when I was a kid. Boy, I had a good time with that!! Amy is supposed to get the figurines that we gave Grandma Rensink and the lute she made. This will also go down in writing. By-the-way, we get a refund from Iowa this year. It was more than enough to pay for the tax but I said I would just send a check and they could deposit the rest for us. Our fed. tax is lower too this year, thank goodness. Boy, I wish we had had our new broker long ago. Then he wouldn't have advised selling Citigroup which gave us such a big tax last year. Yes, I'd like the dog picture - I helped to find the restorer, helped to pay for the framing and frankly I enjoy needlework, and another frankly, Drina doesn't have memories about it hanging in her grandmother's house - frankly I'm a little p.o.'d about their whole attitude. They act like a bunch of snots and then come in expecting all their wishes to be granted. In my mind, inlaws have no business in our family's estate, and if their feelings are hurt well then tough toe-nails - that's one reason I was a little leary of Carl being executor because we're afraid that when it all comes down to it that Drina will lead him around by the nose. I agree w/ him tho' that certain things should be spelled out in the will. The only other thing that I'd like is that pink rocker upstairs - I've always liked that one - but if someone else wants it, that's fine.

I'm going to send this brochure to you but I think Upromise is a mutual fund for college savings that you can invest in.

Anita Brunsting <akbrunsting@suddenlink.net> wrote:

I'm not sure what the Upromise fund is that you're looking at - the program I signed up for gives me money to put in the kids' Iowa 529 funds from purchases I make (it's like a cash back for purchases plan). It's just a little supplemental thing. And yes, this is where I took the money from. I'd like to be noble and say, now don't worry about putting it back but it's a hard offer to pass up. The more I look at my finances, the more I realize how tough it's going to be to pay for their college, even if they start out here at Victoria College. By the time they get to college, estimated costs for one year (tuition, room, board, etc) is $25,000.

Dr. Condera put me on a mild heart pill but the other day when I was as Dr. W. and told him about my persistent cough he said " Oh, that's your heart pill that's doing that and put me on something else that does the same thing and do you know what my cough is gone. The reason Dr. C. put me on blood pressure med was because m blood pressure was a little high the last time I saw him. Don't be too hard on Daddy. Unfortunately he despises his hearing aids and doesn't wear them but he does like to be in on the conversations. Got your plants covered up for tonite? Oh, and another thing, I told Dr. W. about my hips hurting after I've slept on my side for awhile. He gave me some extended tramadol tabs to take before I go to bed. It has helped and I don't know why but yesterday I had so much energy, I havent felt that way for a long time. Maybe it's the new meds he put me on. We'll see.

Anita Brunsting <akbrunsting@suddenlink.net> wrote:

To be honest, I could barely stand Christmas afternoon w/ Daddy - all his chattering and interrupting drove me crazy - you have my sympathy - I'll be the first to admit that taking care of him isn't easy - I think you should give yourself more time off from it.

I wish you would hear from Candy too. And we'll watch our intake of chocolate bunnies, tho' Katie is rather fond of Peeps. We dyed easter eggs today - I'll make lots of deviled eggs from them tomorrow - didn't go looking at any more wildflowers - this week has been very hectic, and I've been very tired the past few days - so I didn't feel like driving a lot today - I finished building a trampoline for the kids instead - we took down the swingset over spring break.

HI: Say do you know why my rose blooms have brown outer petals on them? So far it just seems to be my Clotilde Soubriquet. It had some sort of little bug on the blossoms and I sprayed it with Spectracide. Could that be the reason? My climber is loaded with blooms. A lovely sort of apricot color. Wish they would all come out at once. We went to an art museum at your old almamater this morning. A couple, the Yeargins, donated all their collection plus some other doantions to the Yeargin Art Museum at the high schoo. It's free. She was an art teacher for years in SpBr. and he was a photographer. They traveled all over the world in weird places. they also have an original Grandma Moses painting and one by Benjamin West, an American, who usually did western scenes but this is of Lord Nelson. Very interesting!!

You should see my lovely climbing rose. Covered with gorgeous soft apricot blossoms!!!! I did a dumb thing last week. I've been using insecticidal soap on the roses. I ran out and bought a jug of some more of the same type and poured it in the old jug. The upshot was that it had to be diluted so what I put on was full strength. It damaged the leaves and the buds but I think they'll come out of it. I sprayed water on them too. Remind me to read the small print next time. I guess the e-mail has taken place of phone calls or visits. We haven't see Carol in over a month. I guess she works Sat. and worked again today but I wish she would call just to let us know she's alive sometimes. Carl has been busy moving and I suppose working to get his back yard in shape. We haven't seen him in a while either. It gets kind of lonesome here on weekends, especially for Daddy. He enjoys seeing another face beside mine i'm sure. Enough complaining. Did you ever get out to see the bluebonnets. That reminds me-I found Carl, Carole and you on the internet. What are these photos you are selling? The ones of the flowers?

Hi: What do you do with an old set of tire chains. They're in a box with your name and address on it. Did you use them when you lived in Des Moines? If this was WWII I'd give them to the gov't. They collected used iron and steel for gun material. My brother and I used to go through the grove looking for stuff. Bought the book Einstein by Isaacson. Started reading it and so far very interesting. I don't understand quantum mechanics but there's enough biography, which basically it is, so anyone can enjoy reading it. It's not a short book by any means. Any ideas on the tire chains will be welcome. Boy, do I hae tomatoes on!! And the stems are so thick this year. As thick as a man's middle finger. (A fat man).

Had a rather delicious supper tonite, part of which came from my own garden. We had a lettuce salad and green beans from the garden. Then homemade angelfood cake with strawberries (not homegrown). What a difference between boughten angelfood and homemade! Then we had the first really tender pork chops I've had in ages. Wish I could remember where I bought them. I think Krogers. And to top it off Evelynus gave a small casserole of macroni and cheese. Hers tastes a little different but really was good. She's a good cook. Read in today's paper that Krogers is the leading grocery store in Houston, followed by WalMart supermarket, which I found hard to believe. Randalls was 4th and Fiesta 5th. H.E.B. was 3rd. They're going to build a new big H.E.B. at the corner of BunkerHill and I-10. I really prefer Fiesta as far as salmon and fruit and vegetables are concerned. Better prices I think. Hey, at our age you never know!! Anyway, hang in there. In a way, it was probably just as difficult for us to send 5 to college as it will be to send two. I think I'll just get my cherry tomatoes in the store this year and put them in the ground next year. You should see the whoppers I have ripening on the windowsill!!! Had a lovely rain this morning. Bought a new rose yesterday called <St. Pat". Has lime green edges when it starts opening up and becomes yellow when in full bloom. The one you gave me is going great so is my freebie just like it. Daddy always comments on the roses when we sit on the patio.

Yes, I got the websites you resent. If I remember correctly we picked peaches at Yoakum in June usually. When we would go up to Iowa on Memorial day we would stop at Madisonville and get some and then later we would go to Yoakum. By the way, I'm almost positive I have 2 peach trees growing in the garden behind the garage. I've found several pits in the ground there. I wonder if they would ever bear. I wouldn't worry too much about the kids college tuition. By that time you'll probably have your inheritance or we can give the kids some money and they'll probably get scholarship anyway. My cherry tomatoes are doing lousy but I have them in a tub and they probably dry out too quickly.

Anita Brunsting <akbrunsting@suddenlink.net> wrote:

I think I'll go back to the One billion or one million cherry tomatoes (whatever they're called) next year - I chose a more elongated one (not really a grape I think) and it's doing ok, but not as good as last year. My others are doing just "ok" too, but I should at least get enough for salsa.

Luke started marching practice last Fri and has it again this M and W - so far he likes it - but he'll have lots of fundraising to do - they have to raise $500 each.

I did a bunch of errands today while I'm off - got my oil changed and they found a few more things that needed replacing, so instead of $20, I ended up paying over $200 - but the car's 9years old and I need to make it last another 2-3 years for Luke to use. I guess it's cheaper than a car payment every month (at least that's what I keep telling myself).

I figured at my current rate of savings and hoping that the stock market doesn't crash, that I should have a little over $20,000 saved for each kid for their college - that's a conservative estimate - I'm hoping the market does a little better.

Supposedly that will just pay for one year of college, but if they both start at Victoria College, I'll save a lot of money.

Have to go get the kids from school now - get back to you when more exciting stuff happens - oh forgot one exciting thing, I signed up to be a host home to one or more musicians who will be playing at our Bach Festival in June, woohoo!

Shall I knit Daddy a sweater? I don't remember him being cold in a long time - I remember a few years back that he was cold all the time, even in the middle of summer, but that seemed to have gone away - does he have that again?

Did you get those websites I resent you?

No, he just said it won't get any better. There is nothing new on the market that would help right now. I'm not sure that the antihistamines he's been taking aren't the culprits. I've been reading in my drug book and some can cause seniors to be confused, so I've cut them out since they aren't helping his itching problem anyway. Sure wish I could find something to cure the itching on his arms. We've gone back to the first dermatologist that helped his back. If it weren't for the itching he would be in pretty good shape. I feel so sorry for him. Dr. Fleming gave me a book titled the 36-hr. day and also a video which I haven't watched. I don't know what outside help would do at this point. Sometimes he seems "normal". Yesterday morning. Dad mowed both fron and back. I weed-eated all around and he edged. Then we co-operated in picking up the stuff with the Billy Goat. You should see our place now!! Gorgeous!! This morning we went down to Academy and got him a new Greg Norman hat. His other one is wearing out. This one is by Ducks Unlimited and looks almost the same. Sure was great to see Candy and Owen again but I sure hope she loses weight. She looks like she's about to burst! And it's not good for her diabetes I'm sure. We've had rain the last three days and I guess can expect more for the next few days. Talk about humid!!!! It's thundering again. We may go down to Yoakum and pick some more peaches next week. Amy said they went down last week and got 30 pounds. I asked her if she wanted me to pick some for her. I sent an e-mail to Wayne to try to find out if Amy has any medical insurance or if she even goes to the doctor but I haven't heard from him so I guess he's written us off. Can't say I blame him.

It's just below the laanguage liine which I had changed before. Cost me 43 bucks. The fellow is Iranian and very nice. He's been here 20 years. Shredded away years of our lives yesterday and today and still not done. Daddy saved all the income tax folders from years past and Rick said we didn't have to go that far back. So we've been working on them the last two days. In those folders are doctors receipts, orthodontist, eye doctor, dermatologist, medicine, college, you name it. Was like a trip thru time. Thanks for the long e-mail. Hey, I'm going to be 81. What are you complaining about? Sometimes I wish I was 44 again or at least 70. That was a nice age. 80 gets a little "tedjious" once in awhile. What are you doing the 4th? I think we'll go to a patriotic concert put on at the Community College north of I-10. Costs 5 bucks. Then at night we and Evelyn will go to the parking lot across from her church and watch the fireworks at Lakeside. That's about all the excitement we can stand. We worked on the lawn and garden the last two days. Daddy mowed and edged and ran the billy goat. He mistakenly mixed gas in with the oil on the mower so we had to empty that. I called Watson Lawn Shop where we do business and asked if there was anything we could do on our own and he told me but after a little while Daddy got it started again. This morning I worked in the garden awhile pulling out the cosmoses and weeding and pulled out some of the tomato plants. This rain has mde such a mess of things. Daddy weed-eated and so did I so things look pretty spiffy. It's thundring again so I guess that means more rain. Say, did Amy send you her new e-mail address. I don't know if it's yahoo or 3athome. It was a little confusing. I got a note from Ann saying she loved her present. I bought a little shoulder purse at Spring Thing made by ladies in Guatemala to earn money. It 's very colorful and I put some money in it for her camera she wants to buy. I guess they're doing o.k. for now. Who knows? Wow! How time flies! Thanks for reminding me that I'm going to be 44 :-)

Am working w/ a podiatrist to help fix my longer leg problem (it hurts most of the time and the heel really hurts). She says that my old orthotics are not supporting my feet right anymore and I need some new ones w/ better support, plus she's going to put a 1/4" lift on the right one and she suggested I take my shoes to a cobbler here in town and get an additional 1/4" lift put on my right sole. My left leg is 3/4" longer than my right leg. I'm shelling out $400 for orthotics (not covered by insurance, thank you, and about another $400 for some more tennis shoes and sandals that !!! take to get lifts put on.) She says that I shouldn't walk around barefoot at all, not even in the house. I hope this helps, I don't feel like exercising when my leg and heel hurt so much.

My friend Corinne and her daughter came down last Saturday for a visit. Corinne used to live here and Rebecca (her daughter) used to babysit for me. Corinne and I still keep in touch frequently. Rebecca is doing an internship in environmental engineering for a company in Chocolate Bayou and Corinne came down to visit her. Since it wasn't much further, they came down to Victoria for the day. Luke and Katie are taller than both of them.

Luke started his drum lessons, finally, had to find someone else. Katie started drawing lessons and really likes them (and the teacher). I can't believe how much she's improved in just one lesson.

I finished teaching my last hazmat class this week, so I'm pretty much off for the rest of the summer, and will just while it away shuttling the kids to and fro. Finished my 2 classes I took in the first summer semester - they wen't well, I think I'll get A's. Have one more in the second summer semester.

Glad you got your tv thing fixed - I can sympathize, there's so many buttons, it's hard to figure anything out.

And that's all the news that's fit to report from little ol' Victoria.

I just thought of why Carole was worried or upset this afternoon. I was complaining that my ears were still stopped up and that Dad has trouble breathing at night. His nose gets stopped up. (I think he used too much nosespray during the years. Anyway, he's always saying we got to get out of this swamp. I mentioned I was getting tired of the road work here and that I was considering to New Braunfels where it's drier. So she said why don't you rent an apartment for a month or so and see if it makes any difference. I never thought of that. So we talked about that for awhile. I guess I shouldn't say anything to Carole or complain about anything.

I said "Don't get upset". I'm not about to get rid of any of those. Just wondering what I should do with them. If you want the buggy that's fine. You can always use it as an accent and put an old quilt or your Madam Alexander doll in it for display. I guess girls don't play with dolls anymore. As for moving back to Iowa. Daddy doesn't care for the winters there. We probably should have done that years ago - spend the summer in Ia. and the winter in Texas but it's a little late for that now, beside we would be a thousand miles from you'al. I vividly recall my trips to Iowa to look after the folks. Not particularly fun. So don't worry be happy. As for worry, that's why we set up the trust so that everything would be legally handled. You got to trust someone! And think Al Vasek is on the up and up. We're going to one of his seminars on the 24th and Carl is going with us. It has to do with the successor trustee and what they need to know. I'm fine today and probably will find out nothing from Doc White but I'll let you know. Daddy is the one I wish we could get fixed up. He's been bothered by this skin problem for over a year now and the dermatologists can't seem to find a solution. We may have to find someone else. Wish Dr. Louis was still alive and at Mayo, I'd take him up there. See ya' later.

Hi: It's lil' ole' me again: Don't feel too sorry for me. We always knew things would slow down sometime. Daddy and I had a very interesting life after he retired. I've been in every state except Hawaii and in a number of countries, Daddy more than me. We've seen a lot of interesting things the last 20 years. Those were probably the best years to travel. Now there are so many deterrents. We're also so much better off than a lot of other couples in our S.S. Class. They either can't get out because both are incapacitated or one has Alzheimer's and is in a special home, etc. Those in the retirement homes aren't all that happy either. One lady said she'd like to go out in the hall at night and ask if anyone was there. Sometimes when I get a little down I just do puzzles or solitaire or something to distract myself and then I'm o.k. again. You just have to kind of forget yourself when you're looking after someone. I've learned to keep it light, if I can, and then Daddy is just fine. The trouble is in the summer there is so little for him to do and he gets bored to death. He remembers all the things he used to be able to do and resents the fact that he can't any more. But it usually goes over after awhile. When he first had his accident I asked "Why me Lord"? and then I answered myself "Why not? It happens to a lot of others too. Why should we be exempt! So when I get down I just have a good talk with God and then I'm o.k. again. As for the problems you'all will have after we're gone, that's why we set up the trust in the first place. It bothers me that you think there's going to be friction between you'al. I thought the trust would take care of most of that. It's all spelled out in black and white. But as for the personal things that something you all will have to discuss together. I don't think there is much that's worth fighting over. You can have the picture, Carol can have her bedstead, I don't know what Carl would like except maybe some of Dad's tools., Candy already has Perrine and the crocheted things. I don't know what Amy would like other than the ceramic couple on the table Mother wanted her to have but she already knows that and maybe some books. We gave that to Mother when Elmer went to Blackwell O.K. for an interview with Phillips Petro. I think. I don't know who would like my doll buggy and the quilt Aunt Annie made for my dolls. Ann doesn't seem to care for dolls. I've been trying to clean out some things that I don't need (now don't get excited) such as the jam glasses that the kids used to drink out of, etc. I've tried to get Daddy to clean out the top of the garage but he always says you'al can do it. I think it just makes him feel kind of "terminal". There's a box full dresses that you girls had when you were younger. Some of them are still very pretty but I suppose I might as well give those to MAM or some other organization. I have tons of Christmas cards to get rid of too. Then there are the books on that bear bookstand upstairs that are too childish for any of the grandchildren to read. So there is a lot of stuff to get rid of. jjWhat do I do with Mother's sewing machine? I guess we should have sold it on the sale. I think there are people who will come in and tell you what to do with stuff. Jan Nisbet was telling me of a couple we know who are going into a retirement home who had a lady who came in and told them what of their furniture would fit in their new apartment. She would pack it up for them and have a garage sale for the rest of the stuff for $1200 dollars. I guess there are more professionals like that. The Browns behind us are going to have to go into a retirement home. Last Sunday Evelyn called me and asked me to come over. When I got there the Browns were in her kitchen, both scared to death. He was crouching down in her garage and Joan tapped on Evelyns window. They said someone was after them and Joan said someone had taken all her clothes. Her petticoat she said was missing I found in a black bag he left behind plus a pair of shoes. I took it back the next morning. It was real heavy so who knows what else they had in there. Joan said son Steve was coming in that evening so I said why didn't they go home, lock the door and have him call me when he got there. He didn't so I called them the next morning and Steven said they decided they couldn't live there anymore by themselves and so he's looking for a place for them. I knew Jim had dementia but I didn't know she was as bad or maybe even worse. I think friends from their church have kind of looked after them so that will be another house for sale. I noticed when I went over there they had an iron bar door on the front so I guess they've been rather paranoid for a while. Carole said the tomatoes in the country are done for. They've had so much rain. So if you have any I'd like some. Sure do miss those fresh tomatoes. See you Wednesday or whenever.

No, I don't think I grind my teeth. I'm going back to Dickey (explanation later) and they're going to do some sort of test on my ear bones and I don't know what else before he puts a tube in my ears and drains them. I sure hope that is the answer. I know your're not supposed to cover steroids and I think that is why Daddy is so uncomfortable some mornings because I put some on his neck and hands and they get overheated under the covers, so I'm not putting anything on him at night that has cortisone in it. I bought some caladryl yesterday and used that. It seems to do as much good as anything else. Dr. Fuerst is going to call us to tell us if he wants to do any blood work on Dad. The pathologist mentionee that it could be an immune system problem. Dr. Fuerst said the pills for that could have some nasty side effect so I certainl don't want that. Will keep you up to date. More rain this morning!!!!

Anita Brunsting <akbrunsting@suddenlink.net> wrote:

Do you know if you grind your teeth at night? I do and it's led to jaw problems on my right side - got a night guard. The reason I ask is when my jaw is bothering me, it makes my right ear feel like it's plugged - I think all the chewing from grinding inflames the eustacian tube. Just a thought. You can buy a cheap night guard at Walmart - it's actually a mouth guard for sports, but it works - you dunk it in some boiling water for a few seconds and then put it in your mouth and bite down to get it to mold to your teeth. You can also pay several hundred dollars to a dentist to make a custom one for you.

Generally w/ steroid creams you're not supposed to cover it w/ anything.

Glad you like the light - I know the little things can make my day.

I put the brown chair back where it was and put some covers over the arms and back. Daddy woke up at 4:30 this morning hurting or burning on his arms and face. I've come to the conclusion that we're not going to put anything on at night. I think the instructions said not to cover the creme up with anything and He gets warm under the blankets and that might irritate it. Sound logical? Dr. Fuerst may want to give him some blood tests. Would you mind if I got a 14 or 16? I can go to Hobby Lobby or Hancock and get them. I think it would be easier to adjust the size that way. By-the-way, would you measure Katie from the side base of the neck to her shoulder where the sleeve seam would be. I see where they had a slight earthquake near Oakland. I'm going to e-mail Candy and see if they felt it.

I'm taking the kids and some friends to a Harry Potter release party tonite at Hastings Books, it starts at 9pm and they can pick up their books at midnight - it's a costume party and Katie's going dressed as Hermione who is the main female character in the books - she's got a good costume - I'll try to take pics.

So Dr. Dickey put me on niacin (250mg.) twice a day and something called acyclovir used to shingles and chicken pox and also for "other" things. This 3 times a day. So we'll see. I think I'll wait with Katie's stuff till next week and hope I feel more "with it". By-the-way, does that pattern come in a fourteen? There is quite a difference in the waist size. I think I can alter it but I just wondered. Also I wonder if Katie wouldn't prefer the three=quarter sleeve on the jacket. That's all you see these days. I think it would look younger on her but that's up to her. I think I can make the piping from the same material as the top-just get some small cording and cover it. I helped Dad outside this morning, vacuumed the the downstairs, did the laundry, made the bed all before lunch. After lunch (and a brief nap) I ironed and went to the grocery store and fixed a skirt I want to wear tomorrow. Not too bad is it? Finally a day with no rain!! Carol came over with some wallpaper books that have the cutest paper in for the bedroom upstairs that has to be done over because of the hurricane. She know a guy who does papering or Wallpaper-TOG. has some too. I want to redo the dressing area in our bedroom and the shower area and maybe the little bathroom. Tommy has given it up besides he's in Itlay. Bob has kids about in the sixth grade so he's good for that age. Besides that he is a good musician and has written several songs and kids musicals. They're going to the hill country where I guess you'a;ll went so we'll see if it rains all week. Did I tell you N>B. had 9 inches of rain. Guess I did. Well, it's like this-we've been going to doctors or having tests made. Dad had a blood test I think it was Wed. morn for his hives. They should have done it long ago because I think it's in his system. He also had a urine test. We'll find out the results early next week. It's so hard for him to be patient because this has been going on so long. His face has some new bumps every day, but part of that is because he rubs his face all the time. I'm tired of telling his to keep his hands down and I know it's hard for him. I think I told you Dickey put me on niacin and acycvlor(whatever). Hasn't done a bit of good for my ears but I do have more energy, I think. This rain is getting everyone down. The garden is a mess and the mosquitoes are awful. Enough griping. This too shall pass. A lot of people are worse off than we are. It's the little things that bug me such as the screws pulling out of the drape holder above our bed. I thought I had some replacements in the wing nuts but they don't work so I'll have to go back to Ace and get something else. Went to Lowes and got a new shade for the bedroom. The other one wouldn't roll up anymore and we couldn't fix it so I said "To heck with it" and got a new one. And so it goes. Did I tell you about the Browns behind us? Two weeks ago Evelyn called me late Sunday afternoon and asked if I could come over. When I did there were the Browns sitting in her kitchen scared to death because they said a car was trying to kill them and Joan said someone had been in the house and taken all her clothes. Evelyn found Jim crouched down in her garage like someone was after him. They had a black backpack with them. She had on a heavy winter skirt and sweater. I suggested they go home lock the door and wait till their son Steve who was coming in that night. She said she had a slip on and someone took it. Jim left the black back at Evelyn and she looked inside and there was Joan's slip and a pair of shoes and some other stuff. I took the bag back the next day and it was heavy as lead. Who knows what they had in there. They also have an iron grid door on their front door. I said have him call me but he didn't. So I called the next morning and he said they agreed they couldn't live there by themselves anymore. I don't think they even have a car anymore. Yesterday on my way home from Ace Hdw. I saw them walking home from Krogers and I stopped and picked them up and took them home. They seemed perfectly lucid yesterday. Steve is coming this week again with his daughter. I think they'll probably move to The Terrace next to Memorial City. Well, that's all the news from Lake Woebegon.

HI: I went to Jo-Ann's this afternoon (Hancock has gone out of business) and bought some knit interfacing that i think will work well on that material. I tried a small piece of it. I also got some cording and will make the cording for the blouse out of the same material. I looked for a larger size in the top but they didn't have it so I'll have to do a bit of enlarging. I don't know why there is such a difference between the two patterns. Will you measure from Katie's shoulder to her wrist. Does she want the sleeve in all the same material. The pattern shows a contrasting material for the cuff area. I'm going to make a cake and get some ice cream and we're going to Carl tomorrow night to celebrate his 50th. Well, here's a new one. We went in to see Dad's dermatologist this morning at Mem. City. They did blood tests last week and didn't find anything. I told Dr. Fuerst nothing is helping him so he said would you like to sit in on a conference? It turns out that every week students and doctors from Baylor and UT meet at the VA hospital at the Med Center for a conference on skin problems and Daddy is going to be the "specimen", It's kind of a way of getting a second opinion. Unfortunately it's from 8-9 in the morning so we'll have to leave here about 7 at least. It's off Old Spanish Trail. Dr. Fuerst will be there too. I think he has an idea of what he would like to use on Dad but it's a bit risky-has some side effects so he wants a few more opinions. Should be interesting. I sure hope they come up with something that works. He present situation is the "pits". The back of his hands itch all the time, except when he's sleeping, and he's still getting these welts on his face and arms.

By-the-way, there is a zipper in the back of that top. Since you didn't have one in the package I didn't realize it until I looked at the sewing instructions. I can even get a longer one than 18 in. I think. Shouldn't be too hard to broaden the back a bit. So we can let the top alone and not be concerned with opening those buttons.

Also the roman shade on the patio door is fixed and up again. They were going to charge me $170!!!!!! bucks to do that. I called the kid who put it up and he said they usually charge 30 bucks for picking it up and delivery but I think he was kind of embarassed and knocked it down to $65. that I'll pay. Can grandmas buy sponsor cards? If so I'll take a couple. I'll see what I can do on the blouse. Should be able to get started on it next week. Sounds like you have your plate full. Glad you found something at Dillards. I just cancelled my charge card there because they charged me for being one day late with my card payment and that's the first time that has happened. Besides I don't like the idea of making you take a gift card instead of giving you credit just because you've had something over 30 days. I know, I'm just being a cranky old lady. I hear Macy's may be up for sale. I haven't bought anything there since they took it over. They're no different than Foleys.

I've been meaning to call you, but it's been rather hectic w/ all of Luke's band stuff and going back to school. Katie tried the shirt on and could probably let it out 1/2-3/4" on each side and maybe a 1/2" on the back seam, also can you cut the armholes about an inch deeper?

I'm beginning to think you have gone senile based on your last e-mail - feels like fall? I think you're doing some wishful thinking, or maybe being 2 hours north of us makes a difference. We are definitely in the dog days of summer here and don't feel a whiff of cool air - I went running the other night at 8:30 and it was like running in a warm oven, warm and still.

I found some long pants and some cute tops at Dillards, so I have my back to school clothes - thanks! I also think my new orthotics and putting the 1/4" lift on my right shoe is working - my left leg doesn't hurt and the heel doesn't hurt anymore either - knock on wood. I found some cute Dansko shoes online that I can wear at work that will take my orthotics - they're even approved by the natl podiatry assoc or some such. The only pain is that now everytime I get new shoes, I have to take the right one in to get a lift - so this summer, I bought 2 extra pairs of the running shoes I like so I don't have to mess w/ it for a while.

Band practice is cancelled for tomorrow because of the tropical storm, but I still have to go in and register Katie at the Jr. high. Got to find her some shoes and get her hair cut too, but that will have to wait for a drier day.

Luke and I spent 2 hours last Sunday in front of Sam's selling raffle tickets for the band - their raffling off a car (Mazda 3) and the kids have to sell 110 tickets each to meet their "obligation" for band boosters - Luke sold 12. We're going out there again this Sunday. He also has to sell "sponsor cards" (those are those cards that just say you support the band) - they're $10 each and he has to sell 20 of them to meet his regular "band" obligation. Apparently there's certain expenses that can only be paid through the school district (not by boosters) so that's why there's 2 separate fund raisers - on top of that, I've already paid out almost $300 for his band shoes, contest shirt, band camp fees, new mouthpiece (that his director says he just has to have, even though I bought him a new mouthpiece last year in 8th grade that his then instructor said he just had to have). Are you chuckling now? and thinking something along the lines of payback?

I'm going to break open my piggy bank now and count my pennies...

You take Newsweek don't you? Do you still have the August 20 issue, I think it's the one I'm looking for. Somewhere in it was a picture of two Russian teenage girls or young women and I think they were presenting something to an American woman. Anyway, one of the girls looked so much like Ann it was startling. I was going to cut it out and save it I guess ours must have gone out with the papers. The girls were on either side of the woman. The one that looked like Ann had on a light colored dress.

Tomorrow we're having the patio, drive, side of the house and walk cleaned with a pressure washer. Had Dad's closet retaped Sat. and I'm going to get paint tomorrow so he can paint it. At least, I think he can do that. Carol's room looks nice again.

I was just going to fix a standing rib roast for Christmas dinner. If you feel like it why don't you drive in and have dinner with us. I'm talking about noon or thereabouts. I'm sure Carol will want to come over and that way she could have some company. You could stay overnite if you wanted to. By-the-way, any suggestions for the children's gifts. I'm at a total loss. I'm going to renew Luke's subscription to The Nat'l Geo for his birthday. Also I think Daddy does better when there aren't too many people around. I noticed that Thanksgiving Day. He can't concentrate on too much conversation. That's why Carl took him out for a walk. He could see that he was getting agitated. I'm hoping Amy and the children will come in some time during the holidays. I'm sure it won't be Christman Day.

I'm so glad you decided to come in Christmas Day. Just got a note from Amy . She said they would be in either before Christmas or the day after. Had to check on some things first.

We went to a Messiah sing-a-long at Grace Pres tonite. Our choir, theirs and the Antioch Baptist choir plus a few others were up in the choir loft. Tommy did the conducting and he was great in getting the audience to sing along on certain numbers. It went as smooth as clock work. Had good soloists too. That church has fabulous acoustics and was decorated so beautifully. He conducted and played the harpsichord at the same time at different intervals. j

They're still cheaper than Chevron even without the 5 cent discount we get at Chevron. Altho' we don't need much gas these days either. Thanks for all your help. I'll tell you something funny except that it cost me $79 bucks to find out. I think I told you that the fan and the light above the stove weren't working. I called John Moore Plumbing and they sent a man out. He checked the fuses and all the plugs etc. before he was going to tear into anything. The last thing he did was push up a switch on the cupboard behind my can opener. It's the switch that shuts off the fan and light!!!!!!!!!! I had forgotten it and I'm not sure I've used it! Anyway, they charge 69 to come out and he charged 10 bucks to turn the switch back on. !!!Live and learn. At least I didn't have a 150 bill to fix anything. Say, what kind of black & Decker iron do you have. I brought one home from Ace harw. today but I don't like it because it has sort of suede covering on the handle which is irritating and the dial is hard to turn. So I think I'll return it. They had several other B & D irons plus a sunbeam. I went there because I didn't have to walke so far. Had a nice long talk with Candy this afternoon. She called on her cell phone from work. I called her at 10 last nite but they had gone out and I was sleepy by then altho I had a lousy nit'es sleep. Thanks again for all your help!!!!

Hi: Got a minute? I think the local weathermen better go back to school. All we're getting is a light rain, not even enough to wash the yellow and pine seed off the patio and drive. We covered the tomato plants with pails because it is supposed to hail but so far none of that! I know you're thinking "Shed better be glad it's doing that stuff!!" But the weather is SO boring!! To quote Katie. I just finished ironing. Worked it into two days. Some of that stuff has been in the basket since early Jan.!! There still are about 4 or 5 tablecloths but they can wait. I never thought I'd wear unironed polo shirts but I have for the last few months. Fortunately they come out of the dryer pretty unwrinkled. Say, I have a problem. How do I tell Carol that she smells like her cats a lot of times. She was here for a brief lunch today and the smell to me was overpowering. I don't see how people can work with her. You have cats, Drina has cats, Amy has cats but you all don't smell. She must let them lay on her clothes!! I got her two new lovely tops from Norm Thompson for helping us the last few months. She likes them and was going to try them on. But if she lets the cats lay on them I'm afraid I just might say something. I hate to hurt her feelings and make her mad but something has to be done.!! We got the car inspected last Friday at Mossys which I'll never do again. I had to make an appointment so I didn't think it would take long. We were there an hour and a half!!!! Next time I'll play it smart and take it to a gas station. Carol said Jiffy-Lube does it too. Then I paid the Iowa Land Tax the other day so I'm keeping up on things.

Slow but sure!! My peach tree has about 10 or 12 blossoms on it. I don't expect too much because the squirrels will get them while they are green, I'm sure. Any squirrel deterrents in mind??? I've got to make up at least 10 lbs. Any ideas there? I'm eating everything I can think of to gain weight. Sometimes drink two bottles of Ensure in one day. Nada said I should snack all day. Well it's tea time for Bonzo so I'll quit. You are too young to remember that movie and it Bedtime for Bonzo, a monkey. Ronald Reagan starred in it. Maybe it was the monkey who was the star!! By-the-way, Dr. Dickey said that sometimes when people lose a lot of weight the eustachian (?) tubes stay open which is why I may feel like my ears are clogged and noises are amplified. He said to take Musinex and gave me another inhaler, neither of which is doing any good so far and which is why I'm trying to put on some more weight. Ironic, isn't it. Usually I wanted to lose weight!! Enough for now. You may go to bed. Your sappy mother!!

Your poor mother is losing her marbles, I think. I found my old iron when I went upstairs to work on Carol's bathrobe this morning!!!! I could have sworn it had been on the cupboard in the utility room all the time we were out of commission!! I was thinking one of the caregivers either took it or broke it and tossed it. Shame on me!!!!!! Oh well, now I have two irons and I'll just leave that one upstairs and use it for sewing. I got a new Sunbeam at Ace Hdw. It's a little heavy but sure works nice. If my ears would ever correct themselves I'd feel like I'm back in this world again. Did I tell you that Dickey said that sometimes when people lose a lot of weight their eustachian tubes remain open. I think I did. I've got a long way to go if I'm going to gain 10 lbs. I had a pair of jeans I wanted you to try on. They're either 14 or 16 tall. You can't wear out jeans so they're still good. Carl said he wanted to go with us when we go see Doug Williams on the 25th of April. We didn't get enough rain to wash all the yellow stuff and the catkins off the patio and drive so we'll have to resort to a broom. Oh yes, I couldn't find the I Can't Believe when I wanted to make cinnamon toast for tea this afternoon (out of everything else) I opened the top cupboard to get down a saucer and there it was. I don't think that was me this time. I think Daddy did that. Interesting lives we're leading these days. Maybe I'll write a comic strip.

HAPPY EASTER!!!!!!!!!! HE IS RISEN!!!!!!!!!!

From: Nelva Brunsting

Date: Monday, March 24, 2008 5:48:56 PM

HI: Had a note started and it suddenly disappeared so I'll start again. I'd like to let off a little steam, just a little. I wrote a short letter to the editor of the Chronicle last week and said that I had become rather cynical about the war, dishonest ceos, wallstreet etc. that after reading a fine article in Sundays paper about a young teenager and his mother who came to New Orleans from the East someplace and are volunteering their time to help rebuild houses and clean up others. That is had resotred my faith in mankind.! The first thing Carole said was "Mother you need to get out of the house more!" I guess she thought I was just being a crotchety old woman. Isn't anyone else fed up with those things.! I finally convinced her, I think, that I wasn't yet up to par, and really didn't feel like going to the museum for 4 hrs. or a outing someplace witha bunch of people. I sure don't want a relapse!!! Then I said something about the 4000 soldiers who have been killed in Iraq and she countered with that during the 2 world wars men got killed too. I didn't feel like arguing anymore but I should have mentioned the thousands of Iraqis that have also been killed and that no matter how long we stay there those people are going to be at each others throats for the next 2000 years. She ought to read history and read what Winston Chrchill said when he was given the job of dividing that area up after WW1. It's a cinch G.W. didn't read much history!!!!!! Also the teenagers in Iraq are becoming very dicouraged about ever having a future of some kind. Well, thanks for letting me speak my mind. Carol reminds me a lot of Aunt Mic and Candy. She always has a solution for everything whether it's the right one or not. Oh well, this too shall pass. At least I can have a conversation with Carl. By-the-way, she looke very nice today. Had on a brown plaid pants she got from Land;s End and a new pretty brown knit tope. Wish she'd wear brighter colors tho.

I received a telephone call last evening from an individual identifying himself as an AT&T Service Technician (could also be Telus) who was conducting a test on the telephone lines. He stated that to complete the test I should touch nine(9), zero(0), the pound sign (#), and then hang up.

Luckily, I was suspicious and refused.

Upon contacting the telephone company, I was informed that by pushing 90#, you give the requesting individual full access to your telephone line, which enables them to place long distance calls billed to your home phone number.

I was further informed that this scam has been originating from many local jails/prisons

DO NOT press 90# for ANYONE.

The GTE Security Department requested that I share this information with EVERYONE I KNOW.

After checking with Verizon they also said it was true, so do not dial 90# for anyone !!!!!

PLEASE HIT THAT FORWARD BUTTON AND PASS THIS ON TO EVERYONE YOU KNOW!!!

HI: Went to Doc White today and he hit the nail on the head. He said before I had pneumonia I was an 81 yr. old with the stamina of a 30 yr. old or something like that. After I had the pneu. I was an 81 yr. old acting like an 81 yr. old. No wonder I felt crummy. Can't wait to get back to my former self. He didn't exactly say stamina but it was something like that. I also read somewhere today that multitasking may shorten your life. I was sure I read it in Newsweek but of course I can't find it tonite. If I do I'll send it to you. We're not going to N.B. Sat. because they're all so busy. So I think we'll just drive to Washington-on-the-Brazos to see the bluebonnets and go thru the Texas museum. Doc W. also wants me to have a ct scan. I don't know why but I guess I'll find out. He also said it would probably take me a couple of months to get back to normal. I can tell I'm doing better tho'.

By-the-way, I had an echocardiogram today and everything is hunky-dory, so as I told Carl don't write me off yet!!!! Also, by-the-way, if you need a quick meal and I mean quick, try one of the Bertenolli (?) frozen dinners which you just heat in a skillet for 10 minutes. We had chicken parmesana and tomatoes and penne pasta tonight. I don't think Daddy cares too much for tomato dishes but I thought it was very good. One bag makes enough for 3 altho it says it's for 2. Also have you tried those veggies you just steam? They're delicious!! I'm afraid I'm getting rather lazy and buying frozen dinners every once in awhile. I get rather tired of cooking all the time. Yes, I can hear you say "So do I"!!! and so goodnight Lucy.

Hi: Nice talking to you last nitght. But I would like to get something off my chest, as they say. You were critizing Daddy on his investment. Well, he sent all five of you to college altho' the 2 yrs at North Texas were wastedon Candy. And he paid off your house when Vance divorced you. Where the money came from I don't remember. He also lent C and O money for their first house in Katy. They were going to pay it back. We got one payment and that was it. We also lent Carl $20,000 a few years ago when business was slow. How much we lent Carole I can't count. I know we lent her money for a Jeep Cherokee or something like that she wanted to buy years ago and I have written a number of checks which she said she'd pay back the next day and didn't. We lent Amy $20,000 when they were building their house. And we gave Candy $10,000 a year or two ago when they were in financial straits. And we gave them 10 or 20 thousand to buy their house in Calif. You add that up and that is a sizable amount of money thru the years so I wouldn't be too quick to get on Daddy about his investments! We also have a bunch of savings bonds that have accumulated interest during the years. We used a couple of them to buy our car and cashed in 2 some time ago when they came due.

What day can you come if Doug can't meet any earlier? I'll call them today. Got a letter from Candy. She wrecked her Prius trying to miss a kitten on the road. Got it back after 15 days. Didn't have rental car insurance so had to pay that herself. Their computer crashed so they lost all their data. Asked me to give her all your addresses. I think Kevan just need money for a new machine that would make it easier to make crowns and bridges. I may be wrong. p.s. Did Katy get my note and check? Kevan is already dreaming of where he wants to buy a house, according to Candy. I hope his dream comes true but I think he'd better take it one step at a time.

Aha!!! I knew I had read it somewhere!! We received this notice from our secondary health care provider and I quote, "A study at the University of Michigan suggests multitasking could actually be doing us more harm than good. People who spent time stopping and starting tasks took 2 to 4 times longer to complete them. In addition, brain scans showed juggling tasks reduces the brain power available for each. Over time, stress hormones from multitasking can damage memory centers in the brain. Focus on one task at a time for better efficiency and memory" So one thing at a time!! See you Monday!

Here's Grandma Rensink's recipe for dill pickles or at least it's one she used in Aug. 16, 1960. Wash pickles and pack in jar, add bunch of green dill and a little alum. (Keeps the pickles crisp). Boil together the following and pour boiling syrup over the pickles and seal.

6 cups water, 1 cup vinegar, and 1/2 cup salt. Makes 8 qts. Also read in the Ball canning book that apple cider vinegar is the best for pickling.

Grandma B's recipe was for bread and butter pickles. I think those were mustard seeds they used in them. Little yellow round ones.

There's also recipes for pickled pig's feet and brains and tongue and heart and kidneys and head cheese. Any of those sound interesting????? Actually Grandma R. used to make head cheese and it was very good on bread. At least I liked it!!

Grandma Rensink hardly ever used recipe cards. I found most of her recipes written in the recipe. Could hardly make out some of them. Usually she changed the amount of ingred.

I got to thinking that maybe Katie took a nap up there. I don't think she was feeling good or something. I have a little mildew on my crape myrtle bush. So if it works for you let me know. Well, this morning I stripped the bed and washed the bedding, made bread pudding, made breakfast and put the dishes away, and cleaned out the 3 tiered fountain outside. That's always a job. But it's done. Carole told me I looked like crap when she was here for lunch. I said sure I do. I have my work clothes (you don't clean the fountain in your Sunday best) and I needed to wash my hair. I think she was afraid I did too much but I can't just sit around. Daddy does that and he's almost impossible to get to do anything. He says he's tired. Boy, you should see the huge tomatoes I have on. I made nylon caps for them yesterday.

Did you know that you can use milk as a fungicide? I have powdery mildew pretty bad on my gourd plants and was looking up homemade fungicides on the internet, and I found milk listed in several places. Apparently this is an old home remedy - you mix about 1 part milk to 5-10 parts water. It doesn't matter if you use whole or skim milk - I tried it on my plants this morning - will let you know if it works. Don't know if you have problems w/ powdery mildew, but I always do in the summer and in the winter on my peas - I like it because it's non-toxic, I don't have to worry about it getting on me or cleaning up. They say it's best to just start spraying plants before they're infected as a preventive measure - I think I'll try it this winter w/ pea plants.

How are you feeling?

Did the milk fungicide work? I have some mildew on my crape myrtle or did I tell you this already. Don't laugh, but yesterday I was trying to shut off the water under the sink in the little bath because one of the faucets drips. I couldn't get the turnoff valve to move so I got some WD-40 and sprayed that on then just knocked the heck out of the valves and got them to turn. Don't think they've been turned since they went in. Anyway, I felt so good after I did that that I feel like my old nasty self again. Just co-incidence, maybe. Carl's coming over tomorrow to finish the job. I used to have a book titled "Who Needs a Husband" or something like that but I couldn't find it. It had all the remedies like fixing worn out faucet washer, etc. Have some absolutely huge tomatoes, especially the "Quick Pick" one. Must get back to work. See ya'.

HI: I spent the whole night in bed last night. The first time in over 6 months! For me that's real progress. I usually ended up sleeping an hour or two then ending up in the chair or the sofa with interruptions every few hours. that really takes a toll on ones' body! So cross your fingers and hope this continues. I feel like a different person this morning. I'm meeting with Candace at Vacek's office Wed. Am getting letters from Fleming and Dr. White stating that Daddy can no longer handle financial or legal matters. Have the one from Dr. White and Odie, Dr. Fleming's secretary said she would have him write one. Vasek's office were going to put me with some new guy and I blew my stack so Candace said she would meet with me. I don't want to be pushed on to every new guy they bring in. Sat. nite (I think) - Just a note to say that I think that Daddy is reponding to the therapy quite well. This evening while Carole and I were there he wanted to get out of bed so we helped him sit up briefly on the side of the bed all propped up. he didn't complain too much about his hip as we moved him around so maybe by the end or middle of next week we can bring him home (cross your fingers). They do no therapy on the weekends so we'll have to wait till Monday to start that again. p.s. Daddy's cousin, Joyce Brunsting Vander Well passed away today. They were in a retirement home in Grand Rapids , Mich. she in the nursing wing. She broke her hip and they couldn't do surgery because her bones were too soft, a result of some medication she'd taken for years for some problem. She's one of the 4 sisters - Bette, Joyce, Lucille, and Evelyn. I think she was about 80.

I do not eat fatty foods or too much!!!! Just the opposite. Dr. White said he was going to send me to a grasto-whatever if the Nexium didn't work. I don't have heartburn but Dr. White is treating it as an ulcer. I trust him. As for Robert, I met him and he's very nice and I trust Carole's judgement. He'll help as much as we need him. I also have a woman who is going to help with the housecleaning. So maybe things will shape up slowly. If we can just get Dad to think positive instead of negatively. Hi Katie: Hope you're not in too much pain. Just be a brave little soldier! Yuck!!! But go easy on your Mom. Love Grandma B.

I just haven't had time to e-mail you today. I talked to Carole on the phone today. Katie had her foot surgery today, so I've been taking care of her.

I think you need to see a gastroenterologist for a full examination. It could be several different things, and I think Dr. White just throws medicine at you. Your symptoms do match GastroEsophageal Reflux Disease (GERD) the new fancy term for chronic heartburn. Nexium is not for ulcers, it's for GERD - that's what I told you I thought you had months ago. It's exacerbated by eating a lot of fatty foods or eating too much.

I am glad I did not become a Dr. I wouldn't put up w/ all the insurance and patient hassles that they have to put up w/ for all the money in the world. I do not regret my decision at all. My microbiology degree and EMT background has just made me a little more knowledgeable than the average bear about medical issues.

Good luck bringing Daddy home tomorrow. Please get people to help you in the home now, you should not try to lift Daddy or help him move at all. I don't care if the helpers are sitting on their butts most of the time, you need someone in the home now and it's cheaper than a nursing home, plus a lot more pleasant. Robert sounds like a good guy and he could do a lot of errands and work for you. If there's times when there's not a lot to do, well let it ride, you need someone there just in case - for either one of you.

HI: There was an article in yesterday's paper that maybe your community college will be changed into a 4 yr. college if I read it correctly. I tried to find the paper but of course I could find everything but that this morning. Have you heard any rumors about it. In Orange City they turned the jr. college from a two to a 4 yr. college some years ago.

When we were talking about Medicare D the other night I didn't remember to say that some of Elmer's meds are covered by it but some are not. For instance, his Arricept and Namenda are not. We usually get those from Dr. White as he usually has samples. This time he did not have Arricept. I was mistaken when I thought they were 62 cents each. They were 6 1/2 cents each. My benicar that I was taking (but no longer) was $63 bucks a month for 30 were $2.10 each. Daddy ws very unresponsive today. We would barely manage to get any breakfast in him this morning. He kept falling asleep. Dr. Fleming is going to recommend some blood done on him tomorrow. I went to Pul. Rehab again today. I'm sure it's doing some good. I don't feel so breathless. They keep uping the times on the exercises everytime. I'll end up doing 40 laps around the office when I'm done. Give me strength!!!!

HI All: Just an update on Dad. They didn't do the feeding tube last week but opted to dilate his esophagus and stomach a bit to see if that would help. He's still not getting enough fluids so they're going ahead with the feeding tube on Monday and then hopefully he can come home that day or the next. Robert is glad they're going ahead with that procedure. He thinks it will help Dad get the needed nutrients. Will let you know how he's doing. I'm really tired of the trips to the hospital and will be glad to have him home. He went in last Friday.

Apparently they have a health fund account but Candy couldn't get hold of Owen who has the card so she just paid for the insulin. I don't know what to think-she can get so dramatic sometimes. She made it sound like they didn't know whfre their next meal was coming from. Apparently he was drinking rather heavily last week-that sent his blood sugar way up. Girl trouble Candy said. He's just going to have to behave himself and watch his health if he wants to keep that business. He doesn't have health insurance but they do hae that health account for what it's worth.

His blood pressure is very good and his breathing is good (no more hiccups) and he seems more alert especially in the afternoon. He talked quite a bit this afternoon. What a day!! We had thunder, hail, and rain all at the same time! The hail was about pea size and looked like snow on the ground. And when the rain washed it down the driveway it looked like soapsuds. There was still a small pile of ice in the patio chairs at 6 oc'clock but it is getting warmer. A lot of new leaves were knocked off the trees but just one tomato had a branch knocked off. This is the craziest weather we've ever had. Did you'al get any hail. I'm glad it wasn't any bigger or we'd really have been in trouble.

Something funny for you to read - boy could I relate to this! Anita

If you are or ever were a Methodist you will understand the humor.

Subject: Methodists

Garrison Keillor on Methodists

We make fun of Methodists for their blandness, their excessive calm, their fear of giving offense, their lack of speed, and also for their secret fondness for macaroni and cheese.

But nobody sings like them. If you were to ask an audience in New York City, relatively Methodist-less place, to sing along on the chorus of "Michael Row the Boat Ashore", they will look daggers at you as if you had asked them to strip to their underwear. But if you do this among Methodists, they'd smile and row that boat ashore and up on the beach! And then down the road!

Many Methodists are bred from childhood to sing in four-part harmony, a talent that comes from sitting on the lap of someone singing alto or tenor or bass and hearing the harmonic intervals by putting your little head against that person's rib cage.

It's natural for Methodists to sing in harmony. We are too modest to be soloists, too worldly to sing in unison. When you're singing in the key of C and you slide into the A 7th and D 7th chords, all two hundred of you, it's an emotionally fulfilling moment. By our joining in harmony, we somehow promise that we will not forsake each other.

I do believe this:

P13635

People, these Methodists, who love to sing in four-part harmony are the sort of people you can call up when you're in deep distress.

- * If you're dying, they will comfort you.
- * If you are lonely, they'll talk to you.
- * And if you are hungry, they'll give you tuna salad.
- * Methodists believe in prayer, but would practically die if asked to pray out loud.
- * Methodists like to sing, except when confronted with a new hymn or a hymn with more than four stanzas.
- * Methodists believe their pastors will visit them in the hospital, even if they don't notify them that they are there.
- * Methodists usually follow the official liturgy and will feel it is their way of suffering for their sins.
- * Methodists believe in miracles and even expect miracles, especially during their stewardship visitation programs or when passing the plate.
- * Methodists think that the Bible forbids them from crossing the aisle while passing the peace.
- * Methodists drink coffee as if it were the Third Sacrament.
- * Methodists feel guilty for not staying to cleanup after their own wedding reception in the Fellowship Hall.
- * Methodists are willing to pay up to one dollar for a meal at the church.
- * Methodists still serve Jell-O in the proper liturgical color of the season and think that peas in a tuna casserole add too much color.
- * Methodists believe that it is OK to poke fun at themselves and never take themselves too seriously.

All this means that, if you are to be counted among their numbers, you will know you are a Methodist when:

It's 100 degrees, with 90% humidity, and you still have coffee after the service.

You hear something funny during the sermon and smile as loudly as you can.

Donuts are a line item in the church budget, just like coffee.

When you watch a Star Wars movie and they say, "May the Force be with you," and you respond, "and also with you."

And lastly, you'll know you've been in the presence of a Methodist, if it takes ten minutes to say good-bye!!

Read some cooking hints from Heloise this morning that might come in handy sometime: Need sour cream, mix one cup of plain yogurt with one Tablespoon white vinegar- No baking powder? For each teaspoon needed, mix 1/4 tsp. baking soda with 1/2 cr. of tartar. -No cornstarch? For each tablespoon needed, use 2 tablespoons all purpose flour. No self rising flour? For each cup needed, mix 1 cup all purpose flour, 1 1/2 tsp. baking powder and 1/2 tsp. table salt. One more: No unsweetened baking chocolate? For one square, mix 3 Tablespoons unsweetened cocoa powder and 1 Tblsp. cooking oil or shortening.

Hi,

I got us one room w/ a king, sofa bed and a roll-away. It's at a Courtyard (Marriott) and it was only $100.00/night w/ my triple A discount (saved me about $20). I don't know what's going on but I can't find the paragraph I wrote so I'll start all over again.

After 11 years Deere decided to close the uea plant. After a short stint with a Dallas company (the family stayed in Pryor) Elmer took a job with Golf Oil In Kansas City and we rented a house on Nall Ave., later one in another subdivision. Candy was in jr. high, Carol in the 5th grade, Carl in the 3rd and Amy started kindergarten. Sure enough, in 1967 Gulf moved its offices down to Houston, Texas and we packed up again. I always said I'd never live any further south than Oklahoma. Well, here we are after 40 some years in the original house we purchased in 1967. And the rest as they say "is history".

HI: Did I give you my photo they took for the church directory? I hope so. Carole's is the only one left and I thought I had enough. Im bored out of my skull-almost. If it wasn't for the Astro games I'd go nuts. I don't go out unless it's to the grocery store or bank. I went to the grocers this evening at 7. That was a pretty good time to go. Not much traffic on the road or in the store and it was almost comfortable out. I got a sales advertisement from Martha Turner realtors today and they had Paul Tuckers house listed as sold for $400,000 some, which is more than he got from it. I don't know why the present owner is moving. So far I have'nt see any activity there. I'm forwarding the pics on colors that Jane me. So gorgeous. Did I forward you the icebergs? Carl sent those to me. Where do you get your shampoos? I saw on the internet that some shampoos you get in the drugstore are just as good as salon products. They listed Pantene Volume shampoo, Head and Sholders Smooth and Silky, Pantene Clarair? Care and Head and Shoulder Citrus Breeze. Most of them are in the 5 and 6 dollar range. The last is $7.69. Still no rain but it seems just a bit cooler in the evening and morning.

Is UH-Victoria the same as the community college? There is an article in the paper today about shortening time and cost for a bachelors degree. I didn't know there were 2 colleges in Victoria.

Hi: How are the pics coming for my memoirs? We had a doozy of a rain here his afternoon. I was at Edw. Jones and just got out in time. Really bad lightning and thunder. Really great. Joe Williams was one of those who were flooded out during the last huge rain in May or something like that . He lives near Mem. City. Fortnately, they have a place up near Brenham so he commutes from there for now. Gets home at 8 at night. Has to get up at 4:00 in the morning. He'll be glad to get bacck to is former home.

HI: Say, I don't suppose Luke could wear one of Elmer's suit jackets. It's a kind of sport jacket-plain navy with gold buttons. It's a 44 extra-long. Would look good with a dark khaki pants or a dark grey pants. I'm sure the sleeves would be too long but they can always be altered. Just a thought. Maybe he's bigger in the shoulders than Dad was.

I guess I was hoping to hear from Luke himself. When you were small I had you kids write notes to the grandparents when they sent you some gift. When we cleaned out the Rensink's house I found Mother had saved those notes. Of course with e-mail and texting, or whatever that is, letter writing has kind of gone out of style. (I never have heard from Kevan or Andy) for the money we gave them throughout the years. We even had a savings acc't for them which they got after highschool. Candy was the one who acknowledged everything. Sorry if I sound like a crabby old grandmother. Things have just changed during the years I suppose. Must be the weather. Still no rain. Thunder all around but no rain. Love Mom st find the right sort of treatment for him. One the bright side-he did get his driver's license and he is on the debate team and good at it. I saw a program on Channel 8 last night called "The Medicated Child". I don't know if it's been shown down your way but you might be able to pull it up on pbs.org. I was appalled that some children as young as 4 are getting as many as 8 or 9 different medications a day. Some of the doctors said that medication for adults have been established but for children the studies have not yet been over so a lot of doctors are still just experimenting with what works for kids. I know Andy had problems when he was little and probably does now. I think he was given ritalin at the time but I don't know if he's still taking medication of some sort. I think that's why he's taking a couple of courses at a time. But I think he's supposed to graduate from Com.college sometime soon. I don't know what his major is but he was always good with computers. I hope you find some relief soon because I know it's hard on you too. But knowing it's not Luke's fault or that he takes after V but that it's something other than that. He's come so far without meds so that's at least a start. On another subject-Robert offered to drive me up to Iowa. I was thinking about Berdella-she's in hospice now. He has a brother in Omaha and I could drop him off there. I almost took him up on that but then I remembered that I may have workmen here sometime during Nov. Carl-the contractor sent the estimate to him because he has a fax. I'm going to sign it and maybe he can get started soon. The price was very fair and he also agrees with Carl that I don't need a complete job. About Thanksgiving-just let me know what you want to do. We can either come down or if you're going to be by yourself you can come up here. I can make the turkey and you can make the sweet spuds and a pumpkin pie and Carole could make the salad or something. I don't know if Amy and the kids would come in or not. She could bring stuff Ann can eat. If we make a turkey it will have to be unstuffed and basted with salad oil that isn't made with corn oil. By-the-way, turkey and sweet potatoes are good for you! We'll work something out. I'm sure C and D. will be with R and M. Ryan usually deep fries a turkey.

I don't think the first part of my letter was sent. The computer is doing crazy things these days. Anyway what I said was that I'm sending you two articles that showed up the last few days. I'm sure you know about them already but it helped me to understand a bit more that Luke isn't just being lazy but that there is physical reason for his problem. That should give you a little relief. Now just to find the right thing for him. On the bright side, if there is one, he was able to get his driver's license and he's on the debate team. That's a plus for him. I think that's about all I said in the first part. If I can help in any way just let me know. Monetarily (?) or otherwise.

I hope someday you can hear The Houston Brass Band. They are patterned after the British brass bands. I went to a concert at the Presby. church this evening and wasn't disappointed. Katie would really have enjoyed it. All the instruments were ones with the flared bell. Everything from the soprano cornet to the fluegelhorn, euphonium, and 5 tubas and trombones. plus other types. They did have a tympani, snare and a vibraphone or something similar. They played everything from music in Queen Eliz. time to The Cowboys by John Williams and some marches from some movies, and a cornet duet from the opera, Lakme which I recognized. Have it on a cd only two women sing it on that. The musical version was just as lovely. For an encore they played the piece that the Vienna orchestra plays every New Year where the people clap part of the time. This was one of the free concerts they have during the year. The conductor even show the audience some of the different instruments. There were about 30 members. The Brass bands started during the Industrial Era in England. I'll save the program till you come.

This recipe may be in your Betty Crocker cookbook too.

Herb Stuffing (for a 12 lb. bird)

12 c. slightly dry bread cubes
1/3 c. finely chopped onion (I like a lot of onion) I'd probably make that
1/2c.
1 1/2 tsp salt
1 tsp,sage (maybe a little bit more)
1 tsp. thyme
6 TBSP butter, melted
1 c. canned chidken broth
1 c. of finely chopped celery. May be cook with the melted butter.
Makes 8 cups-enough for a 12lb. turkey

I guess you know not to make the stuffing too moist. It will soak up the turkey juices too.

Howdy: I found the perfect Christmas tree at Krogers yesterday. It's about 5 ft. tall and very dense. Has needles about 1 inch long. And it was only $24. for the whole thing. Don't know what kind it is. and they gave me the stand too! So maybe if you have time when you come in on the 17th you can help me decorate it. It's a real winter day here-big clouds and very windy. The sun peeks thru every now and then. They're actually saying we might get some snow Friday if the conditions are right. The house is coming along nicely. They just need some warmer days to paint it. Should be done when you get here. Gotta' go and fix my lunch. Bye, Love

If you have never heard Jeanne Robertson, she is obviously from the south, she is 6 foot 2 inches tall and she tells stories about herself and her husband whom she refers to as "Left Brain" - never mentions his name, he's always Left Brain. That's enough of an introduction. Now, kick back and laugh for a little while.

Well, you didn't miss to much by not being at the shower. Incidentally, I forgot to take your present along. But I'll bring it over some time this week. I had quite a bit to take along and it was raining cats and dogs and very chilly, not that had anything to do with it.

there were about 10 or 11 there. Most of them girls from highschool or college with Marta. We were never really introduced to anyone. Drina spent most of the time talking to a woman who used to teach them ballet. Marta spend most of time yaking with her friends; The floor was bare so it was quite noisy and hard to communicate. They didn't have the heat on and it was freezing. Poor Carole had a sweater on but she was freezing by the time we left. The only thing keeping her somewhat warm was Haley. She was the last to hold her. The food was good tho' and Marta got lot of cute outfits for Haley and other useful things. But Carole and I were more onlookers than anything. Haley slept thru the whole thing. She likes to be held. The shower was at the home of one of Marta's friend from highschool. We did get a 4 generation picture. Me, Drina, Marta and Haley. Drina held Haley which I thought Marta should have done, but maybe I'm just being catty. Haley apparently has 6 great grandparents and 1 great=great-grandmother. That's quite something. I didn't make it to Sunday School this morning. I guess I'm still not straight with daylight savings time. I keep waking up at 8 or close to it, which was 7 standard time. I'm rather slow in the morning so it didn't give me enough time to have breakfast and get ready. I'm going to see if Robert can do the tilling sometime this week if it warms up. Hope you have recouped from your week and don't worry things will turn out o.k. Just say your prayers.! Love, Mom

Robert is coming tomorrow to do the tilling. I don't know how it will go-it's awfully weedy again. I'd like him to dig up some bushes too and I want to get a redbud tree today and some more mulch for the roses. He may balk at that much work. I'd like to get Nicolas who helps the Suhendras but he's only available on weekends.

Hi: Had a root canal done this morning. $1748.00!!!!!! Was on a filling I had long ago. I had been getting painful shocks in that tooth. Apparently nerve was "dying". For while they thought I would have to go to an endocronologist (?) to have it finished. The nerves were so small but The fellow how worked on me got it done, name was Dr. Reed.

Works for Schleicher. Wasn't painful, just tiring because of the drilling and sitting in the chair so long. So far I'm quite comfortable even tho' the numbness is wearing off. Have to go back in 3 weeks and get the permanent crown put on. ==Say, I think I figured why I got that humongous bill from C.P. I called yesterday to cancel my online payment operation with them. The gal I talked to last week said they were sending bills by e-mail now. I told her I never have received any. I called some operation to cancel my online billing with them and he at first couldn't pull up anything on us. When he found an e-mail address for us it was elmernelva @AOL!!!!!! I told him we have never had that address. He said they only send a letter if they're going to cut off the gas which is the letter I gave you.

To continue-- I'll bet they e-mailed the bill to the AOL address. I'll bet that is what happened to two months worth of bills. I have no way of proving, I guess. I asked to received bills by mail from now on. But it really makes me mad!!!!!! You always talk to a different person when you call and theyre always black (sorry) but they say ax instead of ask. Oh well, live and learn, but its coming out of my pocket!! p.s. My garden area is a mess!! All the weeds Robert tilled under are coming back up. I think they're those nut grass I believe they call them. I think I'll just let it go back to grass. I'll see what Nicolas has for ideas. He's so good at that. Well, toodledo. Mom

Anita: A program that you might be interested in is being shown on our PBS station Sunday- it's called How to find the best fit for college for your child. I don't know if your PBS station will air it or not but it says it is being seen in more than 100 markets in the US. I'll try and listen to it and make notes-it's being shown twice. The leader is a Beth Dessard Ed.D. College Education Consultant. I'll send you the article on her. The program here is listed under Living Smart.

Hi: I don't know what happened to the first e-mail I was writing but it suddenly disappeared so I'll try again. I listened to the program on "Finding the right school for your child this afternoon. Took copious notes but will listen again on Friday night. They showed a Guide to College but I don't think it was by the woman who is a college consultant. She is impressed by community colleges and Liberal Arts for those who aren't sure what they want to major in. Also said it is important to get good grades in the basics such as Eng., Math, and Sci(I think everone knows that). Also said it's a good thing to tour the colleges you are interested in. Apparently there is a web site where you can sign up for tours. You pobably know more about all this than me. I was hoping they would have a question and answer time where people could phone in questions. I wanted to ask what you do if a child refuses to try if the subject doesn't interest him or if it's hard for him. She also said it's not too early to looking into colleges by the 8th grade. I forgot the laidy's name but I wrote it down. I was disappointed the program wasn't longer. hope this helps in a small way. She also said it's important to do a self-analysis on yourself. What kind of a student you think you are and what your strongest points are.

Hi: I have an apology to make to you.- I did have Dr. Wheeler's card. I found it on the kitchen table but you had already gotten in contact with them. My next one is scheduled for next Tues.at 1. I believe.. I've got it written down.I've just got to have this tooth taken care of-I see Schleicher at 2. I suppose they'll want to send me to an endrocronologist so I can pay him 2 thous. bucks!! I'm going to argue with them on that. Tino was here this morning to collect his wages. I'll be glad when we can cut back his hours and he said it would probably be tonite. I think he's very tired also. Robert's patient, Dr. Kelsey, passed away yesterday, so he's free to take Owen's dad and I think he will. Oen and Billie were her yesterday and we had a nice visit. Owen's is as big and bushy as he ever was but looked good. Said Kevan is doing good with his lab at home. Andy and friend's truck broke down so they're kind of in limbo right now. Owen is not inclined to help them out. Guess they were kind of careless looking after the truck.

He's been through a lot of this and I think he's on the right track. I know you don't care for us,that's been obvious for years. I didn't particularly care for my in-laws either but now I wish I had been a little bit more sympathetic toward my mother-in-law. She was never in the best of health. Believe it or not this too shall pass. It's just going to take awhile. The important thing now is getting Carl back on the road to health. Incidentally, he's not only my son, but a brother, and your husband. As long as you two are happy that's the important thing. Like it or not, we all are a part of this problem so don't shut us out completely. I might be able to spell you at the rehab next week. I have some new meds that are supposed to help my shortness of breath and I believe it's working. For what it's worth I say a prayer for you and Carl every night. Love Nelva

I just cannot talk to anyone right now in your family after my experience with some of your daughters this week. In the beginning of all of this (nearly 8 weeks ago) with Carl in critical condition, they seemed supportive as did you - when you offered to help with the medical bills for your son. In light of recent events, this does not seem to be the case at all.

I have had Anita not return my emails or phone calls, I have had Carole tell me I should not have asked you for help with that one bill, I have had Amy call me and tell me what I need to do with my life and Carl's. I have had her also call me after she and Candy have spent the day gossiping about my situation and actually tell me NOT to read a vile and evil email from Candy addressed to me. I did not read it because I do not care what Candy has to say to me on any subject especially this one.

It has become increasingly clear to me that Carl's sisters are anything but supportive and that in fact are busying themselves on just how quickly they can judge me and tear down my family. They are only concerned with how much control they have over the situation and how I need to live my life. They are not at all interested in their brother's situation or welfare. They are all consumed with how everyone else should live their lives instead of looking at their own. I do not need people like that around me when I am trying to focus on getting my critically ill husband well. If you need to talk to anyone, perhaps it would be prudent to speak to some of your mean-spirited daughters on how to not trash or judge others.

What I need more than anything right now is people who are supportive and caring and who will actually HELP. Everyone else can just kindly stay away.

Drina

The Goldberg Brothers - The Inventors of the Automobile Air Conditioner.
Here's a little factoid for automotive buffs or just to dazzle your friends.

The four Goldberg brothers, Lowell, Norman, Hiram, and Max, invented and developed the first automobile air-conditioner. On July 17, 1946, the temperature in Detroit was 97 degrees.

The four brothers walked into old man Henry Ford's office and sweet-talked his secretary into telling him that four gentlemen were there with the most exciting innovation in the auto industry since the electric starter.

Henry was curious and invited them into his office. They refused and instead asked that he come out to the parking lot to their car. They persuaded him to get into the car, which was about 130 degrees, turned on the air conditioner, and cooled the car off immediately.

The old man got very excited and invited them back to the office, where he offered them $3 million for the patent. The brothers refused, saying they would settle for $2 million, but they wanted the recognition by having a label, 'The Goldberg Air Conditioner' on the dashboard of each car in which it was installed.

Now old man Ford was more than just a little anti-Semitic, and there was no way he was going to put the Goldberg's name on two million Fords. They haggled back and forth for about two hours and finally agreed on $4 million and that just their first names would be shown.

And so to this day, all Ford air conditioners show -- Lo, Norm, Hi, and Max -- on the controls.

I liked it too.

He is still having urinary retention and unable to void on his own. He has to be cathed every 3 to 4 hours. He also has bowel incontinence. This seems to be indicative of spinal cord involvement. The urologist is supposed to order a urodynamics study on him sometime in the near future. The infection is already being treated with antibiotics and the course will end soon, but that really is not the cause of his retention..

I am hoping that he reagains enough strength to be able to come home at the end of the month because if he does not it is possible he will have to go into a skilled nursing facility which will only complicate things. I do not know if our insurance will pay for TIRR much longer, and I will not be able to care for him at home unless he gets strong enough to stand, walk, dress himself, and go to the bathroom on his own.

I have added the bills I have so far. They total $17,833.00. There is one that I have already gotten a second past due notice for. It is for Carl's Life Flight helicopter transport. The bill was $10,000. The insurance only paid $1,500. That leaves us responsible for $8,500.00. It is considered to be out of network so insurance did not pay much at all.

I have not gotten a past due yet on any of the others. So many of the doctors from UT who saw Carl at Hermann (and there was a different batch of them weekly because it is a teaching hospital) were out of network and the insurance did not pay because our deductible for out of network doctors is very high.

When you get your funds at the end of the month it would be easiest if you just mailed a check to me so I can deposit it and then I will pay whatever bills I can.

I know Carl will appreciate not having this loom over us whenever he returns home.

He actually remembered our house today and drew a plan of it. I have been working on him remembering this house for weeks and weeks and today I kept at it and all of the sudden he started to remember everything about it. It was very, very exciting!! He still is unable to void and has a test to check his bladder in the morning.

You have to forgive me also because I have gone on very little sleep this past two and a half months. Not to mention being so fearful of losing Carl several times due to so many numerous complications and different infections.

I just could not deal with all of the advice that was being thrown my way in a single day when all I could think of was Carl was going to die. The timing of their barrage was rotten, heartless, cold, and uncalled for. Period.

This has been a complete and total nightmare and I just can't wait for him to get well and strong and come back home.

I thought you meant for me to add up the medical bills, so I did. I guess I misunderstood you again. You can send whatever you want or you can send nothing. I sent you the total for the medical bills because I thought that was what you were going to help with.

I have the household bills covered at the moment and my dad is helping Carl with his office bills for now because we don't want his office to close.

If you want to send something for the medical bills that is fine. If you don't that is fine too.

You are putting me over a barrel by :

When you called me way back in July when this whole nightmare started and stated:.

1. not to worry about the medical bills. You said that you can cash in some bonds or cds or Carl could borrow from his inheritance (as I know Candy HAS RECENTLY DONE, which, by the way makes me curious as to why you are so eager to help her out, but when your son is in a catastrophic medical crisis, you go back and forth AFTER YOU ASK ABOUT THE BILLS, and vascillate about it and end up not helping with his bills at all)

2. Then, when I went to you about the first stupid bill, you vascillated and I didn't need that at the time so I later told you to forget it.

3. Then you come to the hospital and tell your son to NOT WORRY about anything, and you proceed to send me an email asking me to tell you how much the bills were, so I did.

4. THEN you vascillate ONCE AGAIN and say oh, sorry I just meant the utility bills, etc. You have got my head turned around and I don't know WHAT YOU MEAN when you say you are going to help, and then you back out of it.

I really don't care anymore what you do with your money. I am not up to these games . I just learned that Carl will be in until the middle of October. If you want to help your son you can either:

1. Send a check for any amount you wish, or
2. Keep your money.

I am confused. My understanding was that you were going to get money this week after you had just talked to the woman to give us 25,000.

That is what you just told me the other day on the phone and it is what you told Carl as well.. Is that not the case now????Now you seem to be changing it all around again.

Is there not a check for $25,000 coming for Carl and I now, or is there?

Please clarify.

I really need to know the truth about this because Carl just told me this morning that he called you and you promised him the check would be given to us this week.

I am really busy with trying to get things in order for Carl and I have to also go out of town to check on my father. I don't have time for this and I really need to know if you are sending us the check like you promised Carl or not .Just please tell me YES or NO if you are sending the check like you said.

Well, I really don't know what to think about your last e-meal. I did mean what I said about helping you out but usually the insurance takes care of some of that first or is your insurance different than others? I'm sorry you have such a bad impression about our daughters. They're all interested in helping Carl get better, certainly Carole is doing her part! He's the only brother they have and he's very special to them. Anita tends to be a bit blunt but she usually knows what she's talking about. Amy is not so connected with all this being further away. I know my kids so I don't need to be told how bad they are! If you will let me know how I can help I will but I have to know the circumstances first of just what you need. I'm not exactly an ogre, you know. Nelva

I did not read Candy's email to me as I do not need anything negative coming at me during this time. Besides, I do not care what Candy has to say on any subject because her life has not exactly been a bed of roses and I do not respect anything she has to say to me at this time when all I am trying to do is get my husband of 29 years well and home. Candy has a big mouth and her husband walked out on her, so what she could ever have to say to me at this time is totally meaningless. Besides, trekking around with Middle Eastern saxophone players is not exactly something I can relate to. I can see why she so urgently needed some of her inheritance from you. I suppose she also has those grown 30 -something year old sons to support as well. So much for that.

I have many medical bills and the biggest one hasn't been paid by the insurance company yet. Yes, our house is paid for but that does not pay the medical bills. So, anything you wish to help with is to your discretion unless you are talked out of it again by your daughters. I know they are trying to protect their inheritance and do not wish to have it depleted in order to help their brother. I have nothing more to say about that.

I have seen them plot against one another for decades and have nothing more to comment on that because I have heard some pretty damaging things go on between your daughters against one another. This being the biggest reason for not frequenting your house often due to the underlying tension at any given time among them all. It is truly mystifying.

So, even though I appreciate your offer - if you ever want to help us out here, just send what you want because I have already made the mistake of believing you meant it before - only to find out you had changed your mind. I will not ASK YOU AGAIN, so it is up to you. You can send something or not.

As I mentioned already, Carl has no infection at this time, but he cannot void on his own and he is incontinent in his bowels. They are going to do a study on his bladder on Monday to see where the problem lies. I only hope they are able to remedy these problems and it is not a permanent thing involving the spinal cord, because I do not know what that will mean for his coming home. I do not want him to have to go into a nursing home. I do not know how I would be able to care for him here, and cannot afford a private caregiver

.He could use some lightweight sweat pants (gray) with elastic waistbands. Thanks for asking.

They put him on some drugs that were really having bad side effects this week, so I had the doctor paged and withdrew all consent for the drugs that were causing him so many problems. I have been with him every single day from July 3rd....even on the days I have had to go out of town to check on my dad. I will not stop looking out for him.

I do not expect any of your daughters to relate to any of that because NONE of them has a husband, so how in the world could they have any empathy for me???? Four for four husbands walked out... those are some odds.

Please forgive me for my bluntness, but through all of this heartache and tragic situation, I have had so much loving support from so many people who love Carl.... just not much from the Brunsting end. A crisis truly brings out the best and worst of people.

Since your house is paid for you don't have to worry about getting out of it so that's good. As soon as you can get the insurance to pay its part I'll see what

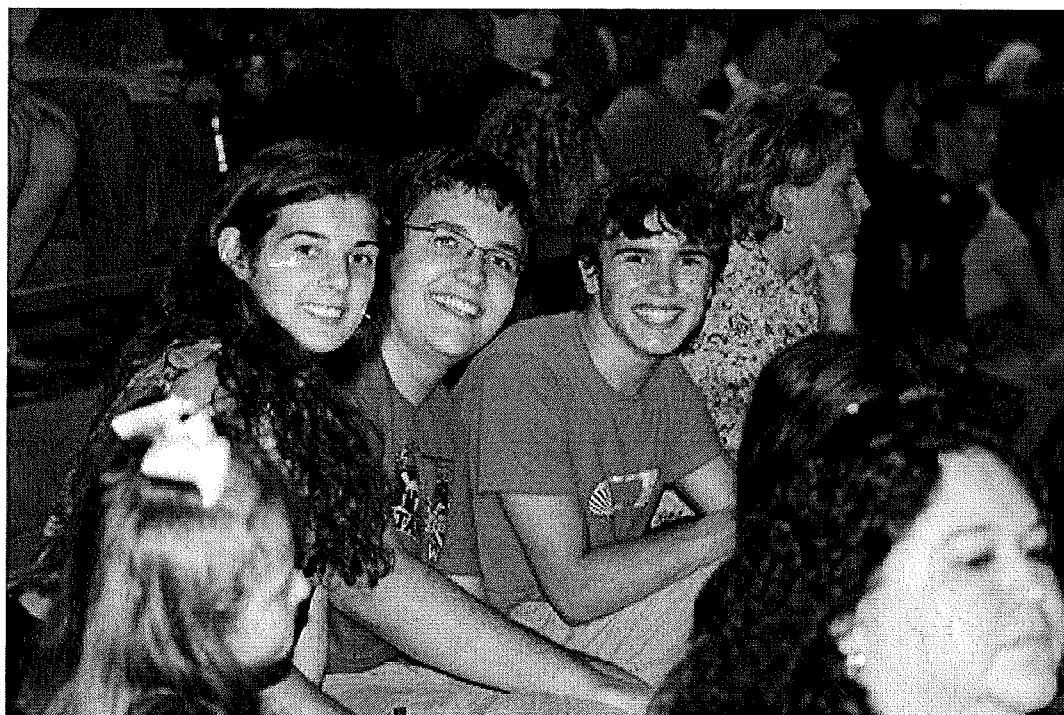

I can do to help. I wish they could get Carl straightened out as far as his infections are concerned. Carol can ask for a snack of some sort at night. He told her he was really hungry the other night. They serve dinner at 4 so it's no wonder he's hungry. He's got over 20 lbs. to put on again. Does he need any shorts or anything like that? I forgot to ask you this morning. As I say, I'll be glad to help any way I can. Since we're on Medicare I didn't have to mess with insurance so I don't know what to tell you on that. Nelva

Sorry, could you resend pics of Luke and Katie again? I couldn't pull them up or messed it up somehow. Someone had better show me how to operate this computer.

If I haven't told you already=the money for Luke's truck will be forthcoming. I'm getting a check for Luke and Amy together-I think-so I'll have to write separate checks to them. Happy Thanksgiving!

A new explanation of benefits is ready for you

Dear Nelva,

Did You Know?

A new explanation of benefits (EOB) from UnitedHealthcare is ready for you at myuhc.com, showing:

- The status of a health care service claim for you or a covered member of your family
- The amounts paid by your plan and/or amounts you owe
- Information about your coverage

Please review immediately as it may include appeal rights or other information that is time-sensitive.

How to view your explanation of benefits

- Log in to myuhc.com
- Select View my Claims
- Your most recent claim(s) are at the top of the Claims Summary
- Select More Details for the claim you want to view
- Select Download Explanation of Benefits to see your EOB

Flu virus can live on surfaces for up to 8 hours. You can catch the flu by touching a doorknob or table with the virus on it. Flu.gov recommends that you wash your hands often, and keep them away from your eyes, nose and mouth.

I hope you can open this - the email version was too grainy. Drove all over Dewitt county today - here's what I found. (Cuero's in Dewitt county) - it was so quite, I wanted to stay there.

He went right to his drafting table today to draw again. Also, he likes to feed the birds in the back yard and walk all around. Not using the cane much anymore, either. Getting better and better!!
